Mathematical Puzzles and Paradoxes Lecture with Gresham College

Many puzzles have a long history, such as water pouring puzzles, where you need to measure (for example) one pint of water equipped only with an eight-pint and a five-pint jug. The mathematics behind the solution has many useful applications.

Meanwhile, paradoxes such as: "some men shave themselves; those that do not shave themselves are shaved by the barber: who shaves the barber?" lead us to deep questions about set theory. In this lecture, Professor Sarah Hart will discuss several examples and the related mathematics.

This will take place on Tuesday 30th January at 1pm, click here to register.
