Aviation and Aerospace: Sustainable Aircraft with UK Civil Aviation Authority

Join this Sprint with the Civil Aviation Authority and use your creative thinking and great ideas to consider the future potential of Sustainable Aviation Fuel (SAF). You'll investigate the pros and possible cons of SAF, and, with the help of expert professionals, you'll address some key questions around this potential sustainable solution.

In this Sprint, you'll be supported by Polina Webb, Sustainability Principal at the Civil Aviation Authority. Polina will take you through some of the key aspects of sustainable aviation and provide an insight into some of the unique challenges that the sector faces. She will guide you through the task at hand and showcase how organisations like the Civil Aviation Authority are working to tackle this and work towards a greener future. Plus, you'll get the chance to hear more about the CAA's Sustainability Team, and Polina's journey in the sector and the different career pathways available!

MASTERCLASSES

University of Huddersfield Politics Talk:

"How to be a Supreme Court Justice – understanding the political role of the USA's highest court"

In this workshop, designed around the Politics and Government of the USA, you'll have the opportunity to learn the workings of the US Supreme Court and to examine its responsibilities as the interpreter of the US Constitution. You'll hear about the political role of the court in the context of political polarisation in the USA today.

This will take place on 2nd November from 1pm – 2:30pm. To sign up for this talk, click here.

A History of the World in Four Algorithms with Gresham College

Algorithms are fundamental to the story of mathematics – they've been around for over four thousand years. A theorem may prove that a solution to a problem exists, but an algorithm gives you the directions to actually find it.

This lecture explores four key algorithms that have not just shaped pure mathematics, but have found unexpected applications in areas as diverse as nuclear physics, film-making, medicine, and music.

This will take place on 15th October from 5:30pm. To join, click here.

A SPOTLIGHT

ON...

Nursing and Midwifery

Nurses and midwives are central to Primary Health Care and are often the first and sometimes the only health professional that people see and the quality of their initial assessment, care and treatment is vital. They are also part of their local community – sharing its culture, strengths and vulnerabilities – and can shape and deliver effective interventions to meet the needs of patients, families and communities.

What qualifications do I need to become a Nurse or Midwife?

- The most common route into nursing is by completing a nursing degree though there are other routes available, including nursing apprenticeship degrees and nursing associate roles.

Each university sets its own entry requirements for entry onto a nursing degree, but in general you'll need to get at least five 9-4 (A-C) grade GCSEs (including English, maths and a science subject) and at least two (preferably three) A levels. Lots of universities require A level biology.

Alternative level 3 qualifications are sometimes accepted by universities (such as approved Access to Nursing courses, BTEC National Diplomas or International Baccalaureates), but you'll need to check with your chosen university before making an application.

- The first step to becoming a midwife is to take a degree level programme approved by the Nursing & Midwifery Council (NMC). This may be a full-time undergraduate or postgraduate degree or midwifery degree apprenticeship.

Applications for full-time approved midwifery degree courses are made through UCAS. You should contact individual universities about their part-time courses and how to apply.

You're likely to need three A-levels or equivalent level 3 qualifications, such as a T level or BTEC, plus supporting GCSEs. Entry is competitive and high grades at A-level (or equivalent qualifications at level 3) might be needed. Universities may also ask for certain subjects, such as at least one science or social science subject.

As entry requirements can vary, we always recommend contacting universities and employers to find out the qualifications you'll need.

What roles are related to Nursing and Midwifery?

Adult nurse, Children's nurse, District nurse, General practice nurse, learning disability nurse, Neonatal nurse, Nursing associate, Prison nurse, Theatre nurse are all related roles to Nursing. Maternity support worker and Health visitor come under the related roles for Midwifery.
